

A call for nominations – 2010 food security champions

Once a year we take the time out to formally identify people, organizations, governments and businesses doing outstanding work in creating greater food security and more sustainable food systems in BC's Capital Region. There is so much great work being done and these awards are an opportunity to say a big thank you and recognize people for their commitment and work.

Tell us about that person or group you know who is doing great work around food related issues?

Please fill out the following form by and submit it by March 5, 2010. A selection committee will choose the 2010 recipients. Awards will be presented at the Food Matters Annual Forum on Food Security on March 26, 2010.
